RE: Nomination of Eric Sabach to the Cadets Hall of Fame

I am submitting Eric Sabach to you for consideration for the Cadets Hall of Fame.

I have known Eric for many years. It always seemed like he was a member who took great prided in being a Cadet, as we all do. Even in that earliest time that I met him he was always reaching out to meet people and network.

Eric marched in the corps for many years and his pride in wearing the uniform was always apparent and to this day I see pictures of him when he marched.

My interactions with Eric have grown mostly from my experience in adjudication. Eric loved judging and he continues to participate actively in the activity through this medium. I can remember judging the corps and getting into many conversations with him as he developed and enhanced his knowledge and communication skills, transferring his knowledge as a Cadet to many musical ensembles and students, and that continues today. This is part of the outreach that makes him so recognized and respected. He has been a Chief Judge for DCA, and held similar roles multiple state band associations and guard associations.

Perhaps the most recognized observation for Eric is the amount of financial support he has provided to The Cadets. He was always involved in the campaigns (even calling me to donate more) and through his business has donated tens of thousands of dollars work of flags and props to the corp. (Many do not know that.) When the corps and the organization went through some very difficult times recently Eric became a very involved participant in (amongst others) becoming a YEA board member and working hard to save the organization. We all worked hard to help people communicate, but Eric, perhaps, fought harder. I know this from personal experience while I was working at YEA and from the multitude of conversations we had about saving the corps.

Today, Eric Sabach continues to serve The Cadets as a board member and I am sure many understand his dedication to the organization. Proving his love for the Maroon and Gold he pushed for and supported the return to the traditional uniform we love. Eric works for the Stanbury uniform company and he recently convinced this company to sponsor the drum corps.

It definitely is my honor to recommend Eric Sabach to the Hall of Fame committee.

Sincerely,

Judy Tomko Ulchinsky
